"Digital literacy and a new tool box for university teachers"

What is digital literacy? How digitally literate are you? How digitally literate are your students?

Are you an online resident or visitor?

These are some of the questions I will discuss together with presenting a national project on supporting (language) teachers in the digitalization of our teaching in higher education (2digi). You will learn about free online 2digi-tools for teachers wanting to assess, develop or document their digital skills or wanting to find out about their students' skills.
